Dr. Howard Gross performs Volunteer Eye Surgery in Ghana, Africa

Dr. Howard J. Gross of Horizon Eye Care traveled to Ghana, Africa, on December 10 through December 18, 2010, with Surgical Eye Expeditions (SEE) International to perform cataract surgery. Dr. Gross donated his time and travel expenses to participate in this expedition.

Dr. Gross, a respected cataract surgeon in Southern New Jersey, serves as the Medical Director of Horizon Eye Care in Margate, New Jersey.

Dr. Gross was moved by the extreme need of the people of Ghana. Many patients were totally blind from cataracts, a condition that is easily curable in the United States. "This was a humbling experience for me and exhilarating for the patients who had their vision restored by the surgery," said Dr. Gross. "This procedure enables the patients to resume productive roles in their communities and tribes. I was grateful to be able to take part in such a wonderful international humanitarian effort."

The expedition was hosted by Dr. Thomas Baah, a native ophthalmologist in Accra, Ghana and Save the Nation's Site, a non-profit organization committed to improving health of the Ghana population. In the past, Dr. Baah has hosted a number of successful SEE expeditions. Moreover, in 2011, SEE International hopes to further expand its cooperation with Dr. Baah and visit Ghana with greater frequency.

According to the World Health Organization, cataracts are the cause of roughly half of the world's 37 million cases of blindness. SEE International and their network of volunteer surgeons have performed over 360,000 surgeries since its inception. Founded in 1994, SEE is a non-profit organization that deploys surgical teams to developing nations to perform sight-restoring procedures.

Horizon Eye Care has been serving the vision needs of the people of Atlantic, Cape May, and Southern Ocean Counties for more than 20 years. Dr. Gross is the medical director of the organization which provides comprehensive eye care including state of the art cataract surgery in the area's first ambulatory surgical center.
